More of the Operatic War. BIOR COURT, GENERAL TERM—ATTACHMENT AGAINST OLE BULL DISCHARGED FINALLY.

Manca 31.—Max Maretzek and Bertucca Maretzek, his Wife, against Ole Bull.—Chief Justice Oakloy gave, this the decision of the full bench. He stated that in the drst instance, an application was made to him to grant an attachment in a suit brought by Madame Ma-retzek separately, without joining her husband; that he refused to grant the application, on the ground that the action could not be sustained by the wife alone. Afterwards, the husband was joined with the wife as co-plaintiff, and an application made to Judge Slosson apon the same affidavit which had been previously pianniss, and an application made to Judge Slosson upon the same affidavit which had been previously presented, and an attachment was granted. Application was then made by Mr. Bulkeley, on behalf of Ole Bull, at the special term, to set it aside upon the original papers, and also upon affidavits. Numerous supplementary affidavies were then put in by appellants' coursel, and the motion was argued at special term, where the Judge, upon hearing the argument concluded that an order must be entered discharging the attachment, which was accordingly done. From this order an appeal was taken to the general term, and the matter was argued before us at some length, by both counsel, on Saturday last. Upon that asgument this Court came to the conclusion that even upon the original affidavits presented, the attachment must be discharged. The Court agreed perfectly in the views presented by Mr. Bulkeley upon the argument, that under the statute a party must make out a good cause of action; in other words, that the grounds of the claim must be specifically set forth, and they must be legal grounds. The original affidavit sets forth the contract, and alleges that there is due upon that contract $300, and then states that Ole Bull violated the contract, and alture, and they are louse. It is very clear that upon the contract no action can be maintained. Upon the argument, Mr. Sandford contended that it was enough to show that services had been performed, and that plaintiff could sue for what they were really worth. The only allegation in the affidavit which relates to that is that "Ole Budl had not paid her for her services," and the counsel seemed to think this a distinct a legation of services rendered. We do not so view it. In considering the matter, we hold that in these summary proceedings, where it is sought to attach a persen's property, or arrest his person, there must be a strict compliance wifn the statute. In this case no cause of action is alleged, except what plaintiff is entitled to uncer the contract, and as that affirmed.

The Clerk then entered the following order:—
"An appeal having been taken by Max Maretzek and wife, from an order made at Special Term discharging the attachment against the respondent, and after hearing Messrs Sandford and Billings on behalf of the appellants, and Mr. L. E. Bukeisy, counsel for the respondent, Ole Bull, it is ordered that the order of the Special Term discharging the attachment herein be, and the same is hereby, affirmed, with costs of appeal against the appellants."

FOURTH DISTRICT COURT. Before Justice Van Cott.

MARCH 31 - Francis Petrarchi against Ole Bull. - The ourt room was full this morning of the attachees of the Italian Opera, including Max Mareizek, Watson, &c., in expectation that the trial of this case was to come off, d all seemed much disappointed at the final result. to himself of ten or twelve persons who were connected with the late opera, and had issued a short summons with the late opera, and had issued a short summons against Ole Bull, which was not personally served, but left at his hotel. The aimmons was returnable yeaterday, and Mr. Bulkeley, Ole Bull's counsel, being engaged in another court, concluded not to appear, as no judgment could be taken without personal service. The copy summons, however, had been left on his table, and a very yourg lad in Mr. Bulkeley's office seeing it, thought that he would try his hand in court and went up, eatered an appearance, joined issue, and consented to left the cause be adjourned to this morning. When sverything was in readiness to proceed to trial, Mr. Bulkeley entered the court and stated to the Judge that he objected to all the proceedings in the case, and as was the only one authorized to appear in any court for Ole Buil. He then furnished the Court with an affi-dayl of the manner in which the lad had appeared there on the morning provious; that if he had seat the lad, and being sent he had made a mistake, he would abide by the consequences; but, as he had no idea that he was going there, and as the plaintiff had seen fit to issue a short summons upon an afficiart of his own that Ole Buil was a non-resident, and had caused an adjournment of only one day instead of six, (the usual times), he should insist upon his legal rights. He then offered to Mesars. Billings and Booke, plaintiff counsel, that he would waive all objections if they would consent to adjourn the trial to such a day as he, Mr. Bulkeley, and to note his objection, and allow the trial to proceed.

Mr. Bulkeley, and to note his objection, and allow the trial to proceed.

Mr. Bulkeley, and to note his objection, and allow the trial to proceed.

Mr. Bulkeley—Very well; I don't appear in the case; that I will sit a moment and l'sten to the cloquence of my opponents.

Mr. Billings then proceeded to open the case as follows:

—If it please the Court, this is an action brought by Petrarchi, as assignee, &c.

Judge—The summons does not claim as "assignee." Mr. Billings—We moved to amend the summons. Judge—The Court has no power.

Mr. Billings—Wr. Bulkeley, if you will consent to adoura this case to sext Thursday, and give security, I will let it stand over.

Mr. Bulkeley—I will do nothing of the kind. I made you a fair offer and you refused: now go on with the trial; I have got my exception entered by the Judge, and I ask no favors from anybody.

Mr. Billings—Will not the Court, if we consent to adjourn, compel Mr. Bulkeley to furnish security?

Judge—Mr Bulkeley to furnish security?

Judge—Mr Bulkeley to furnish security and you would not adjourn when he requested you to, and now he does not ask an adjurnment, but prefers to rely upon an appeal on his exception.

Mr. Bulkeley—As I see the gentlemen on the other side are in a quandary, I will now consent to an adjournment, as I before proposed.

Mr. Bole—To you waive all objections to the regularity of our proceedings?

Mr. Bulkeley—I will permit you to amend your summons by inserting the word "assignee;" I will enter an appearance and waive all objections, except one, and that B., your proceeding against Ole Bull as a non-resident.

THE INJUNCTION AGAINST THE NICARAGUA TRANSIT COMPANY.

MARON 31.—Daniel B. Allen vs. Charles Morgan, President of the Accessory Transit Company of Nicaragua, and image*——In this case an injunction had been granted by his Honor Judge Duer, on an ex parte application, which was to have been made on the 26th inst. but was postponed until this day to accommodate counsel, who were engaged. To casy the parties appeared by their counsel, and defendants caused the argument to be brought. The counsel for the plaintiff read a printed document as his complaint, and rested. The counsel for defendants read affidavits of all the defendants, except Nelson Robinson, and an affidavit of Cornelius Vanderbit and others, not parties, denying all the allegations of the plaintiff, and showing that the plaintiff had not been a stockholder for two years nearly before he communed the action, and must have bought the stock with knowledge of the facts; that he advised the purchase of the steamships and the issue of stock to pay therefor; that he and his associates had made almost $70,000 cut of the new stock subscribed for; that he wanted to be the agent to run the ships, and so stated at the time, and had since January last, applied for the agency at New York or San Francisc; but the company declined to ergage him. It appears that | when the company beught the steamships of Vanderbilt, it had about $16,000 worth of property net, while it had on the first of January last, and has now, after running these stemships two years, about $2,500,000 of property net, and it has paid for this and a dividend of about $230,000 besides. The commissions and salaries to agents appeared to have been very much engageated in the complaint, and figures and amounts are given in answer, showing another state of facts altogether. After the answers were read, plaintiff's counsel saked that the further argument be postponed ten days, but defendants' counsel strenuously opposed it, and urged and insisted that the engagement proceed at once. The Court stated that the injunction did not restrain any act or operation of the Accessory Transit Company in the least, a sident of the Accessory Transit Company of Nicaragua, and other — In this case an injunction had been granted

LONG DELAND CITY MARINE RAILWAY.—On Saturday this establishment tested its powers in hauling out the new steamboat Commonwealth, which it performed after the boat was "pointed," in one hour and twenty minutes, running time. The location of these ways was selected on account of the many advantages it afforded, giving not only capacity to receive vessels drawing sixteen feet of water, but is so much out of the tide way that vessels can at all times lay in comfortable quarters. The capacity and power are believed to be much greater than that afforded by any other railway in America. The Commonwealth is 1,000 tons burthen, and 325 feet long, a tolerably good guage of the capacity of the ways. TRAIL TRIP OF THE PILOT BOAT EDWIN FOREST,—The new

A NEW WAY OF RAISING THE WIND.

On Saturday Justice Consoily, of the Fourth District Police Court, committed seven boys, varying from 15 to 19 years of age, to prison, charged with being banded together for the purpose of "raising the wind" by a new dodge. These gentle youths, it seems, have for months past been engaged in driving cattle into the Pound, in Forty second street, near Ninth avenue, from the yards of the owners residing in the upper part of the island. The plan of operations was as follows:—One or two of the party would set upon the place of the party's premises intended to be robbed, and would throw stones at whatever cowe or pigs might be in the yard, and drive them out of the inclosure. Having safely got the animals out of the yard without committing any trespass, they would then drive them off to the Pounc, where they were fortunate enough to get into their clutches. Everal citizens in the neighborhood of Yora-ville were in this manner imposed upon, and put to a great deal of trouble and annoyance. Mr. George Muredon, of Forty-fourth street and Ninth avenue, making a complaint against these young rasoals, they were all arrested, and at the instance of Justice Connolly were committed to the Tombs to answer any charges that may be preferred against them.

woman named Harriet Williams, charged with having at-tacked Jane Townsend, also of the same hue, with a dirk knife, with intent to take her life. The dispute, it cars white, with intent to take her life. The dispute, its seems, grew out of an affair of love. Jane and Harriet, it appears, fell in love with a darky named Jack, and each of them, for months past, have been indefatigable in attentions to him—each striving to be the successful one in attaining the hand of Mr. Jack in the holy bonds of wedlock. The object of the twofold love, after a great deal of nesitation, finally declared Jane to be the winner, and accordingly the happy day was fixed for the nuptials. When Harriet heard of the decision of the darkey relative to choice in marriage, she became awfully enraged, and, as it is alleged, swore to take the life of her dark rival, and for the purpose of accomplishing this object, attacked Miss Townsend with a dirk knife, cutting the latter severely. Harriet was locked up in the Iombs.

In view of these facts, they recommended that the company be disbanded, and the members expelled from the Fire Department, which was carried. The same committee, on charges preferred against Company No. 16, in abandoning their engine in the public street, on the 29th of January last reported the charge proved; and further, that the engine house is made the resort of bad characters, who are a source of great annoyance to the neighborhood. City Intelligence.

The Weather-Sussime and Storm.—April was inaugurated most happily, yesterday morning, by soft balmy weather, though with characteristic deklaness it changed in the afternoon, and was rough and boisterous. In the morning, all could say with the preacher, "The light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is to behold the sun;" and, indeed, so fair, and warm, and sunny, did the day promise to be, that the streets were crowded with victims of miplaced confidence, who had doffed their winter habiliments and assumed garments more bestiting the season. But alsa, for the vanity of human bestiting the season. But alsa, for the vanity of human expectations, towards noon a chilling wind storm swooped upon the city, and tore through the streets, whirling shivering to their homes the thinly clad and discomitted pedestrians, who were convinced that old Boress was trying to be funny and was making April fools of them, though they failed to appreciate the joke. The surface of the water on the rivers and bay was a sheet of foam, and the storm did no little damage to such lose rigging as was not properly secured. It was a rude, reystering, unmannerly, libertine wind. It caused illy-secured lats and caps to take wings and fly away to the grast dismay of the luckless wights who owned them, and moreover took provoking liberties with ladies' dress es, and whirled around corners and into recesses it should have been ashamed to go near. Coffee bags, yesterday, followed the example set by flour bags, and manifested an upward tendency. It was, indeed, pitiable to see the unfortuna's damesis endeavoring to look unconcerned while standing at an angle of thirty degrees against the wind, to keep the unruly garments in their proper position. Towards night, the wind died of somewhat; but it continued raw and cold with symptoms of rain. Put no trust in appearances. Remember that In april weather.

The Cyperians.—Vary few of these unfortunate females were to be seen in the streets last night. Mayor Wood's vigorous measures having infused a wholesome terror Fifth district, occasioned by a fire being discovered in the auction store belonging to Geo. C. Holbrook, 6014 Bowea rear door, and with a few pails of water soon extinguished the flames. On examining the premises the flaw was found to have originated in a drawer under a coanter, but how the fire came there is at present a mystery. Mr. Holbrook has an insurance of $500 on his stock in the Rutgers Insurance Company. The Fire Marshall was soon at the atore, examined the premises, and no doubt a full investigation will be gone into. The families occupying the house above the store were very much alarmed. Many of them ran down stairs with nothing on them but their night clothing.
